Adaptation : Endeavouring a Foreseeable Future (NCA-2022)

Conference Brief

Adaptation plays a major role to improve the city's sustainable attributes. As the spaces and components of the building continue to change, it creates many opportunities and enhances the ability of humans to endure through time. In the past two years, we have witnessed challenging times globally at almost every precinct. The challenges have affected almost every sector and domain we know of. This has resulted in the development of new technologies and innovative solutions of livability and also reminded us, as a society, about the importance of nurturing our fundamentals of survival according to transitioning times, which have been the pillars of progress of human civilization. It made us aware of the fact that "Adaptability" in the face of uncertainty is important as it allows us to see the possibilities in an unanticipated change. As the saying by Tuli Kupferberg "When patterns are broken, new worlds emerge."

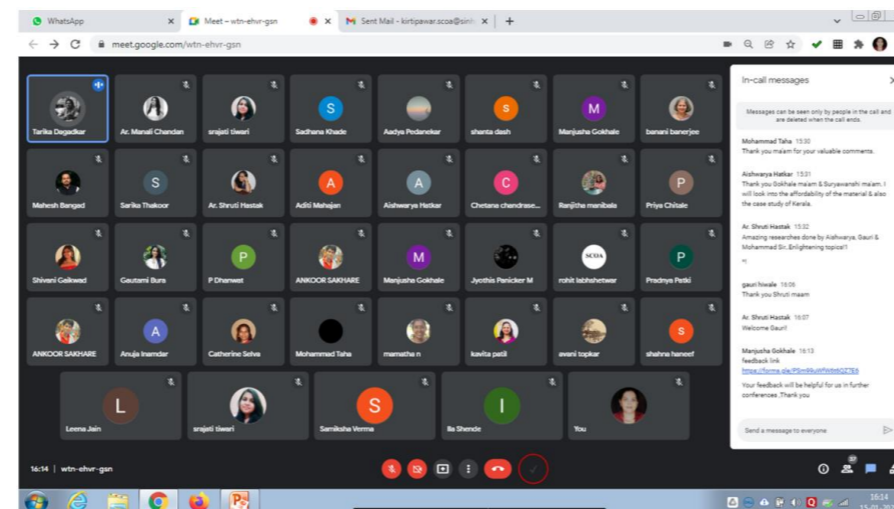

The conference aims at elucidating the new developments and innovations under various precincts that have adapted to the new culture and manner of living and also those that will keep evolving for augmentation of a dynamic future. The conference also intends to produce evidence of different technologies, art forms, management that are interconnected in the field of Design, Architecture, Planning and Innovation.
