Course Philosophy: with special emphasis on multi-disciplinary approach

Complexities arising out of development efforts demand planning experts to be well versed with many aspects associated with the built environment. Heritage is one of them. Hence expertise from any specialized stream should be trained with a multidisciplinary approach. Our course focuses on a multi-disciplinary approach by integrating various streams related to Heritage conservation. A stress is also laid on philosophical underpinnings as Philosophy forms the foundation of conservation practices. The training aims at equipping the architects with sound technical knowledge by bridging the gap between the classroom and the field.
